

Seven (7) Ways to Spot an Oklahoma Lawyer
You Shouldn't Hire for Your DUI Defense

1. He tells you that there is nothing that you can do to avoid having your Oklahoma license revoked for your DUI arrest. This is simply NOT true. There are multiple defenses that can be used in your DUI case . . . and should be!

2. He tells you that the breath machine (breathalyzer) used in Oklahoma cannot be attacked or defended. This is a statement made by someone who is also frighteningly ignorant. The machine has several weaknesses that a DUI defense attorney can take advantage of on your behalf.

3. He has never attended ANY seminars or courses on Standardized Field Sobriety Tests. If a lawyer does not attend one of these courses and study the techniques used by the officer in arresting you, how can he defend you?

4. He has a GENERAL law practice, handling any and everything from divorces to bankruptcy. DUI Defense is a specialty area of law and only those lawyers who limit their practice to this can stay on the cutting edge for your defense.

5. He does NOT own an Intoxilyzer 5000 breath test machine. Only those lawyers who own one of these can bring one to court on your behalf to show the judge or the jury the problems that these machines can produce which result in a false reading.

6. He tells you that your case doesn't require a "high-powered" DUI Defense lawyer and that he can do the same for you that one of those lawyers might do. In point of fact, DUI cases can be extremely complex. And any attorney who does not understand the complexities cannot represent you as effectively. Not to mention that DUI penalties can be severe. Do you really want to entrust your DUI case to someone who does not intimately know DUI law and defenses?

7. He tells you that he sees no defense in your case and that the best that you can hope for is to get a plea bargain.
